I was honored to join longtime friend and colleague Lourdes Castro Ramírez, California’s Secretary of the Business, Consumer Services and Housing Agency, for a roundtable discussion she held last week in San Diego regarding the State of California’s investments in solutions to address homelessness.

She also discussed the Community Action Plan on Homelessness for the City of San Diego and leadership attributes of the organization.

Changes in state and federal regulations regarding the allowable spending of federal emergency rental assistance funds have proved necessary to address the impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic.

On July 27, 2021, the City Council authorized an additional $60.1 million for assistance payments through this program.

As families continue to experience financial challenges due to the COVID-19 pandemic that may affect their housing, the San Diego City Council has authorized SDHC to expend additional funds for the COVID-19 Housing Stability Assistance Program to help more households with low income experiencing financial hardship.

However, additional applications are submitted each day, requesting help from the COVID-19 Housing Stability Assistance Program, which launched on March 15, 2021. SDHC has fully expended all of the federal funds previously allocated directly to the City of San Diego by the State of California allocated to the City for assistance payments through this program.

As of August 2, 2021, SDHC has disbursed payments totaling more than $63.6 million to help households with low income experiencing financial hardship.

I was pleased to share information about SDHC’s leadership role in addressing homelessness and create and preserve affordable housing in San Diego.

SDHC led the creation of this action plan. The Secretary spoke about California Governor Gavin Newsom’s focus on housing and homelessness programs and services that stimulate the local economy, revitalize neighborhoods, and impact the lives of low-income San Diegans experiencing homelessness.
